

Feeling for Stones

Learning and invention when facing the unknown

© Barbara Heinzen 2004

Excerpts from the book which appear on the website are highlighted in yellow.

Table of Contents

Preface	iii
Introduction	v
Chapter One: The Roxbury Woods	1
Chapter Two: Questions from the Sahel	11
Le Gris-gris and the Slave Trade of Gorée	12
Oil Lamps and the Experience of Order	16
The Sandstorm	18
Political Failures of a French Forage	21
The Secretary Bird and the Game of Cards	27
The Complicity of Telephones	30
Conquest and Survival	32
Chapter Three: Sitting by a Coal Fire	35
Neighbourhoods of Invention	37
Two Common Fields	39
The Gardens of Queen Square	46
The Myth of the Pristine Wilderness	48
The End of the Wild Wood	56
The Rise of Coal	62
The English Accident	66
Chapter Four: The Cameroon Mountain Race	70
A Confusion of Maps	72
Fako	76
Kuva's Defence	85
Interrupted Evolutions	88
Population Lines	93
Madame Dugast's Map, Again	95
The Rabbit's Long Ears	98
Chapter Five: Two Curves	100
Visiting Geneva	102
A Story of Two Brothers	105
Which Wave?	110
Twenty Years On	114
Possible Diagrams	116

Chapter Six: Darwin's Face	118
The Schools of Clerkenwell	120
Newton's Neighbourly Windmill	126
Wat Tyler's Handshake	131
Darwin's Face	136
The Sugar Valley between Dry Hills	141
Entering the Hall	147
Chapter Seven: Nature's Voice	150
The Memories of Stones	151
Footpaths and Fears	157
Mosaic Rights and Column Rights	161
The Mask of Order in Abundant Life	168
Searching for the Voice of Nature	173
Stretched and Unstable	176
Feeling for Stones	181
Chapter Eight: Moving On	188
Neighbourly Experiments, Necessity &amp; Learning	190
Conquest &amp; Survival, Extremity &amp; Engagement	192
Ecological Living	197
Moving On	202
Appendix – Outline of Main Arguments	204
Meeting Pablo Neruda - unused draft material

NB: Two excerpts come from Chapter Seven: "Footpaths and fears" and "Nature's voice"